Museum of Northwest Art

Candice Reid earned a BS in Art Education K-12 from State University of New York, New Paltz; MS Art Education K-12 from Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, NY; and a MS Reading Resource Specialist K-12 from Seattle University.

Candice retired in 2017 from a 43-year career teaching visual art to students in four high schools and one private college in three states including Maryland, Alaska, and Washington. During those years, Candice was involved in art events in the communities in which she lived. While living in Anacortes, she represented Anacortes High School in the “Local Artists in the Schools” and “Anacortes Youth Arts”, reviewing grants for local artists integrating the arts into ASD classrooms.

She maintained membership in the Washington Art Education Association, attending both state & national art education conventions to keep abreast of current advances in art education.

In 2014, Candice was recognized with the Brodniak Award for outstanding art education from the Anacortes School District.

Currently, Candice serves on the board of trustees at the Museum of NW Art, contributing to the MoNA education committee. Candice also volunteers as a docent for MoNA. Prior to her involvement with MoNA, Candice spent six years as a board member with the Anacortes Arts Festival after many years of volunteering.

Candice and her partner live in Anacortes where enjoy the regional arts communities and natural environment of the San Juan Islands.

I so enjoy greeting MoNA visitors and sharing my passion for visual art, especially when a visitor discovers MoNA for the first time and is surprised & impressed at this “hidden jewel of a museum” and what it has to offer!
